QR Codes from Quiring turn Headstones into Interactive Memorials

SEATTLE, WA— Cemetery headstones have not changed appreciably in the past 5,000 years...until now. Quiring Monuments is pleased to introduce an innovative new approach to memorialization.

Today the mobile population has further increased the separation of families worldwide. What hasn't changed over the centuries though is our desire to keep the memory of loved ones alive for generations yet to come. Quiring has created a new type of headstone which connects people regardless of where they reside. The Living Headstone™ memorial blends the timeless traditional value of granite headstones with the newest technology available, to provide an interactive "living" memorial legacy for future generations. "Each grave in the cemetery holds unique stories that are valuable to our society both emotionally and historically," says owner David Quiring. "Living Headstone™ memorials will unlock and preserve these stories for future generations."

With the use of QR codes on headstones, Quiring makes it possible for friends and family to create, edit, and publish "archive sites" or Web pages to commemorate their loved ones. Similar to a personal Facebook page, a Living Headstone™ archive site contains information you and friends can add about your loved one, such as: an obituary, family heritage and history, photos, video and audio clips, comments by friends and relatives and even a map to locate the memorial in the cemetery.

A QR code on the headstone acts as a link which enables users of smart phones and mobile tablets to scan and automatically connect to a personalized website. It can be viewed on the phone or mobile tablet as visitors wander through the cemetery or by simply typing in a unique web address into your computer internet browser.

Although others may view the information, only visitors authorized by the family administrator can post information on the Web page. This link can be applied to new or existing cemetery headstones, mausoleum shutters, cremation urns, garden benches or as an addition to a public memorial. In situations where cremated remains were previously scattered, a miniature memorial plaque with the digital link – QR code is available for display in your home or garden or even on a field stone in a Green Burial Cemetery. For more information watch the new Living Headstone™ Memorial Video at www.monuments.com.

Shine On Brightly: Finding Your Final Resting Place in an Art Gallery?

ASHEVILLE, NC— When making an important purchase, we usually take time to explore our options. Whether it's a car, a house, or a vacation, we might look at many, many cars, houses, or vacation destinations before making a decision. But have you ever considered shopping for your final resting place?

Many people have done this through the years. They purchase a burial plot in a cemetery, long before the end of their lives. Yet the times they are a'changin', especially in the realm of end of life preferences. Today's cremation rates are skyrocketing worldwide. It just makes sense to think about selecting a cremation urn or memorial that really reflects you and your legacy.

Shine On Brightly, the online gallery for memorial art, including cremation urns, memorial jewelry, memorial glass, hand-bound guest register books, and memorial portraits, has partnered with the renowned Blue Spiral 1 Gallery in Asheville, NC, to present a gallery exhibit of creative containers for cremation remains, entitled "Remains To Be Seen: An Out of the Box Look at Modern Cremation Containers."

The show opens on August 5, 2011, in conjunction with a scheduled Asheville Downtown Gallery Association Art Walk. It will run through September 10, 2011.

This juried exhibit features approximately 40 works of 20 artists who create vessels for cremation remains, and includes works in ceramics, wood, glass, metal, and mixed media.

"We're very excited about the diversity of media and styles that are represented in this show. The subject matter is inherently thought-provoking, and we expect that people will be pleasantly surprised by the accessibility of these works," comments Shine On Brightly owner, Adrienne Crowther.

Many recent articles, books, and other media point toward the growing number of cremations, both in the US and worldwide. Baby boomers especially, are breaking tradition in their spiritual beliefs, environmental convictions, and affinity toward individuality in all aspects of life. The funeral industry concedes to this rapid conversion to cremation, yet products for containment of cremation remains are limited, and are often mass-produced and outsourced. Shine On Brightly fills this void by providing unique art pieces made with love and fine craftsmanship. This exhibit is an outreach effort by Shine On Brightly to inform the public about choices regarding containment of cremation remains, and the importance of art as it relates to life. For more information visit www.shineonbrightly.com or call 1-866-844-4469.

Limbo North America introduces Biodegradable Urns

LAREDO, TX— Globally, many people are beginning to embrace the spirituality of stewardship for the Earth and “green” thinking has become a part of our most treasured rituals. In response to the demand for ecological innovation and competitive, affordable prices, Limbo is proud to introduce four new 100% biodegradable urns, handcrafted using only heat and pressure, which facilitate the green burial of remains in earth and water.

New Biodegradable Limbo Urns

The Geos urn is made of hardened organic compost (100% animal origin free) and mineral soil, bound with natural plant extracts. The terra-cotta lid may be removed to allow a tree to be planted within the urn, which, when buried, will provide a nutrient rich base of ash and compost for the young seedling. Alternatively, with proper care, this urn may be shelved for 20 years.

The Nu urn is made of sea salt, designed for interment and reintegration into salt water. Dissolving in approximately one hour, this 100% soluble urn can also last for years, if kept in a suitable environment.

The Samsara urn is made of golden sand and salt, bound with natural plant extracts. It is designed to dissolve within two hours in the cold, fresh water of a lake or river, and can also be buried.

The Adagio urn is made from cork collected from the forests of Spain. This urn is an excellent example of sustainable practices as cork can be harvested without cutting down the trees. The Adagio urn, like the Geos, may be used to plant a memorial tree. In the proper environment, it may be interred for years in a church or cemetery niche before reintegration.

Limbo urns are ecologically proven biodegradable and handcrafted, without the use of products of animal origin or petroleum. They support sustainable practices and return only rich organic material to the Earth. Your customer base will certainly be intrigued by the competitive and affordable prices in addition to the sound ecological practices of Limbo and their solution to environmentally friendly reintegration.

For more information on Limbo's biodegradable urns, and to see photos and videos, visit www.limbo-northamerica.com or email hello@limbo-northamerica.com.

TransMedia urges placing a Microsoft Tag on headstones of Fallen Heroes so anyone with a mobile phone can pull up their Life Story

BOCA RATON, FL— Memorial Day 2011 has inspired an idea to place not only wreaths and flags, but decorated QR-type codes called "Tagitaphs" (www.tagitaph.com) on the headstones of U.S. soldiers who paid the ultimate price for freedom.

QR Codes yield a depth of content with a snap of a mobile phone picture, says Tom Madden, CEO of TransMedia Group who patented Knife and Forklift and other inventions. QR "scancodes" as they are called direct users to websites, provide information and even connect to wireless devices, but are limited. For the purpose he has in mind, Madden prefers a similar Microsoft technology called "Microsoft Tag," which could be red, white and blue. Microsoft Tag is a colorful, visually appealing code that offers more than just the basics, said Madden.

Microsoft Tag can integrate a name and rank within the tag itself and when scanned (shot with a camera on a mobile device) much like QR Codes, does a few other things that makes life easier, said Madden. Microsoft's High Capacity Color Barcodes (HCCBs) were designed to work with the limitations of smartphone cameras. Even with a somewhat blurry picture, users can get a more accurate read and tags don't need to be as large, and can be scaled down, saving real estate.

Now Madden believes the technology should come to cemeteries so people can pull up the biography of a serviceman or woman KIA. Madden's PR firm serves clients worldwide and has helped to raise funds for the families of U.S. Marines and Law Enforcement Officers killed in action.

Madden's daughter, Adrienne Mazzone, came up with another tombstone innovation called Stained Glass Memorials, which is a stained glass depiction of a cross or other symbol backlit by a light source perpetually powered by solar energy. "We have thought about honoring those killed on 9/11 and who died while serving in the Military or in Law Enforcement by providing more information about these heroes at their grave sites.

"Thanks to Microsoft TAG technology, there is a way to make information about a fallen hero instantly and everlastingly retrievable through a tombstone Tagitaph," said Madden. For more information contact Jairus Marlow, TransMedia Group at 561-750-9800 Ext. 228 or email Jairus@TransMediaGroup.com.

Zontec™ System Installed in Oakland Cemetery Garden Mausoleum, Sandusky, Ohio

TAMPA, FL— "In September 2009, we purchased a Zontec™ System because of a noticeable stench coming from our outside garden mausoleum and we had received some complaints. Unlike most garden mausoleums, there was an enclosed corridor located in the backside of this garden mausoleum that backed up to the crypts. Once we installed the system in the back corridor, you could walk around the outside of the building and finally not smell anything. It worked," stated Dan Hedberg, cemetery manager for Oakland Cemetery in Sandusky, OH.

"The Zontec™ Solution is the most environmentally friendly way to eliminate odors and control the gnats instead of using harmful pesticides, chemicals and deodorizers not to mention the extra expense for these products. Zontec™ units safely eliminate insects and odors electronically. It is Mother Nature's formula for clean air." says Lyndi Demers,

Oakland Cemetery Garden Mausoleum

project manager, Zontec™ International, Inc.

Serving the community since 1850, Oakland Cemetery and Memorial Park, a historical municipal cemetery, is located at 2917 Milan Road in Sandusky. For more information visit www.ci.sandusky.oh.us/horticulture/cemetery-history.htm.

For over 25 years, Zontec™ has adhered to the highest quality standards in the industry manufacturing superior products that are built to last. Zontec™ International, Inc. presently serves hundreds of mausoleums and funeral homes throughout North America, and is a supplier member of the CCC, ICCFA, NFDA, FACA, FCCFA, and OACFP. For more information about the Zontec™ system, to see testimonials from many satisfied customers, or to place an order, you may contact the company directly at their headquarters in Tampa. Or, you may visit them online at www.zontecsolution.com, call 1-800-474-0105 or email them at info@zontecsolution.com.

Cemetery Funeral Supply chooses WeatherMax Superior Tent Fabric

MONROE, NC— When Stanley Scruggs took over Cemetery Funeral Supply (CFS) in 1994, he established a reputation for distributing only the highest-quality equipment. Offering everything from carriages to chairs and lights, tents are by far the company's largest business segment. To meet his exacting standards and specifications, Scruggs relies on WeatherMax 80 and WeatherMax FR from Safety Components for premium tents to satisfy his customers.

"WeatherMax is our top choice for many reasons," said Scruggs. "We especially appreciate the fact that it's flexible and easy to work with." That's important because CFS fabricates six lines of tents, in all shapes and sizes, from the elegant Hilltop version to the popular Chapel style.

In addition to models for funeral services, the Cherry Log, a Georgia-based company also offers a selection of tents for parties and other special occasions. With WeatherMax available in 20 colors, Scruggs has many options for his customers.

Because tents are set up and taken down frequently, they must be lightweight and stand up to abrasion. Environmentally friendly, WeatherMax 80 has twice the strength and six times the abrasion resistance of acrylic. It further outshines acrylics with superior water-resistance, yet the extensively-tested and proven HydroMax finish ensures WeatherMax remains breathable to combat mold and mildew. Made from solution-dyed SaturaMax yarns, WeatherMax 80 maintains its rich color and dimensional stability for a minimum of five years.

WeatherMax FR fire retardant fabric incorporates the same qualities as WeatherMax 80, and meets CSFM Title 19, CPAI 84, and NFPA 701 test methods 1 and 2, as well as FMVSS 302 specifications. More information about Cemetery Funeral Supply can be found at www.cfsupply.com.
